

The awards began in the spring of 2002 with the mandate to recognize talented individuals and outstanding companies in Nova Scotia for their national and international work in the science and technology fields. The awards bring together universities, corporations, businesses, government and the local community for an evening of celebration, where we honour people whose leading-edge work have helped make Nova Scotia a leader in science and technology innovation. Our award recipients put science achievement in the minds of the local community along with serving as role models for youth who may well be our scientists of the future.

Recognized by six award categories

- Hall of Fame – Individuals who have achieved outstanding lifetime contributions to science and technology (determined by committee)
- Science Champion – an individual who promotes science and technology to the public in above and beyond the normal avenues of communication
- Innovation – a company that has produced a commercially viable product or service and is ready or has already launched it into the market
- Professional of Distinction – an individual who is a leading innovator, a role model for people who choose science as a career
- Emerging Professional of Distinction – an individual under the age of 35 who demonstrates intellectual achievements, excellence and potential for ongoing growth and development
- Youth – A student or students who has been recognized by the Nova Scotia Science Fairs as worthy of being recognized for his or her outstanding achievements (Determined by Canada Wide Science Fair NS Gold recipient)

Nominations for the awards begin in January (deadline end of May) and the final selection by our committees is made in September. Nominations are sought throughout the province with calls going out to universities, innovation centres, government, colleges, science and technology associations, and the media. Each category can have only three finalists, all of whom participate in the final presentation in November. Only one in each category receives an award except in the Hall of Fame where several people may be entered in one year.

Discovery Centre Background

Discovery Centre is Atlantic Canada's premier science centre. The Centre helps to build scientific literacy and positive attitudes towards science by empowering youth with knowledge and sharing with them structured experiences in a safe, stimulating environment. We strive to make science fun, interactive and creative from an early age, to inspire science literacy and maintain their involvement in science throughout their schooling and to consider the sciences as a career path. The Centre opened in 1990 and is a registered charity (#108076662RR0001). It is governed by a board of directors, employs fifty-two people, and offers a variety of programs and services (such as: workshops, exhibits, youth day camps, outreach programs and planetarium shows)
